

Activity 16. Final review.

Your final task is to script a story of yourself as a positive learner who will face all many ups and downs in learning and life well into the future. Everyone holds a script inside their brain about themselves as a learner. If you script yourself as a learner in a positive way, you will believe you can learn in any circumstances. We want to read or hear your positive script. Feel free to write or video your script. Use template ?? and in your own words script your story in a way that represents you as the person you are, and will become.

My script about my life;
Positive learning and living.
